The first record of the appearance of Deacon John Hall in Dover is in the tax list of March, 1649. He may have arrived before that year. Earlier records disappeared in Colonial times.

He was the earliest deacon of the First Church, clerk of the writs, town clerk, selectman, and held many minor public offices. From these positions of responsibility it may be inferred that he was well educated for his time, that he was a man of means, and that in his private and public life he held the esteem of his neighbors.

He lived on the hill at Dover Neck, on the lot next to that of the old meeting house which served as town house and fort for the pioneer settlement.

A deposition makes him born about 1617. A deed of his house and home lot, to go to one of his sons after his death, was recorded in 1695. He was in Dover when he was thirty-two years old, was deacon when thirty-eight, selectman when forty-three, town clerk when fifty-three, and died aged nearly eighty years.

His property seems to have descended through three sons.

SONS OF DEACON JOHN HALL

John[2] Hall lived on Dover Neck and was a tavern keeper. He was a representative in the New Hampshire legislature in 1695 and 1696.

In 1671 he married Abigail, daughter of John and Abigail (Nutter) Roberts and granddaughter of Elder Hatevil Nutter. As boys seldom married before twenty-one years old, it may be inferred that he was born in 1650 or earlier.

They named one of their sons Hatevil (a combination of HATE and EVIL) and the name was continued through at least three more generations.

He died in 1697 leaving an estate valued at £104, 18s. His "eldest son and heir," John, with his mother Abigail, conveyed land "formerly belonging to grandfather, Deacon Hall." This record establishes the relation of the three Johns.

Nathaniel[2] Hall was taxed in 1680. This would imply that he was at least twenty-one years old at that time, and so born before 1660. In 1696, with his wife Hannah, he conveyed land "granted my deceased father, Deacon John Hall."

Nothing is known of descendants.

Ralph[2] Hall married in 1701, as his second wife, Mary, daughter of Philip Chesley. He is known to have had at least four children by his first wife (name unknown). His eldest son was born as early as 1685, which would suggest that the father was born before 1665.

He was auditor in 1702 and constable in 1705. He lived in the homestead which he had received from his father, the deacon, and died in 1706.

CHILDREN OF JOHN[2] HALL

John[3] Hall married Elizabeth —— and had a daughter, Sarah.

Thomas[3] Hall married Mary —— and had three sons. With them the male line is supposed to have died out.

Joseph[3] Hall married Esther Beard and had a daughter, Abigail. He conveyed land granted to Deacon Hall.

Hatevil[3] Hall lived in Dover on the west side of Back River. He married Mercy Cromwell in 1707 and had one child, Hatevil. The father is said to have been drowned in early manhood. The son had thirteen children, who settled in Maine and had an aggregate of one hundred thirty children.

CHILDREN OF RALPH[2] HALL

John[3] Hall was born as early as 1685. He lived first on Dover Neck, but as early as 1730 was in Somersworth where he had one hundred acres which had been granted to Deacon Hall in 1656. He married Hester, daughter of Philip Chesley. He conveyed rights in the calves' pasture granted to grandfather John Hall.

Benjamin[3] Hall, born 1702, married Frances Willey of Lee, and after living a while in Madbury, settled in Barrington.

Ralph[3] Hall, born about 1704, married Elizabeth Willey of Lee, and after living a while in Madbury, settled in Barrington.

Joseph[3] Hall, born 1706, married Peniel Bean and lived in Dover.
